

GROUP GIFTS & ENTERTAINMENT POLICY

Gifts and entertainment are an important way of developing and maintaining business relationships. However, gifts and entertainment must not place the recipient under any obligation and should not be capable of being misconstrued.

Basis

All the employees of Hill & Smith PLC and its operating companies (the “Group”) and anyone providing services to the Group will abide by this Policy’s principles and request authorisation for gifts and entertainment that exceed this Policy’s limits and ensure that any gifts or entertainment, whether given or received, accepted, or declined, are properly recorded.

Adoption

This Policy has been adopted by the Group and will be updated or modified as appropriate.

Implementation

The Board of Hill & Smith PLC has overall responsibility for compliance with this Policy. The senior leadership teams of each operating company are responsible for ensuring the employees of their business understand and comply with this Policy.

Principles

The Group is committed to the highest standards of quality, honesty, and accountability and as such we should:

- never offer, pay, solicit, or accept improper or illegal gifts or entertainment in any form, either directly or indirectly or via any third party;
- ensure that any gifts or entertainment, whether given or received, do not exceed the limits set out in this Policy and that such instances are properly recorded. This protects you and us from allegations of undue influence;
- carefully consider the timing of any offer of a gift or entertainment, particularly if you are involved in competitive bids, tenders, or contract negotiations to avoid it being misinterpreted;
- ensure that gifts or entertainment must not place the recipient (which maybe you) under any obligation and should not be capable of being misconstrued; and
- ensure that any gifts or entertainment, whether given or received, accepted, or declined, are properly recorded.

Limits on gifts or entertainment given or received

This Policy does not seek to prevent the giving of gifts and entertainment, but to place a responsibility on employees to consider the context in which such gifts and entertainment is offered. The Group acknowledges that entertainment is often an element of a relationship with existing customers, clients or suppliers and future business prospects. Business entertainment could include meals, dinners, sporting events, parties, concerts, and other events where business matters are discussed.

The Policy applies the values below which should not be exceeded when gifts or entertainment is given or received, noting that cash gifts (including vouchers or gift cards) are never acceptable under any circumstance.

However, sometimes there may be situations where it is appropriate to give or receive something from a customer or supplier that exceeds the values below and where there is a related business purpose. In such cases you must complete the relevant Gifts & Entertainment Request for Approval Form and obtain management approval from of your Line Manager and appropriate company Managing Director or Finance Director and your Group President or the Group Company Secretary.

Reporting

Along with the Gifts & Entertainment Request for Approval Form, all offers of gifts and entertainment, whether accepted or refused must be recorded and records maintained by each operating company.

Summary

Sometimes you know what the right thing to do is but sometimes there is an element of doubt. If you are unsure, then ask and remind yourself:

- Does it comply with the Policy and the Group Code of Business Conduct?
- Would I be embarrassed if anyone within or outside of the Group knew about the situation or my actions?
- Could the gift or entertainment be viewed by others as an attempt to influence a business decision?
- Bribes are illegal no matter what the local custom or practice may be – for example in giving expensive gifts or the provision of what may be perceived as lavish entertainment.

Violation

If you become aware of a violation of this policy you should report it either via your Managing Director, Group President or Group Company Secretary, or report using the Group’s online ‘SPEAK UP’ portal, provided by Navex Global EthicsPoint at <https://www.hsgroup.ethicspoint.com>
